

why do you people feel the need to try and control everything in this world? if this is soppuse to be free country it sure doesn't feel like it anymore. there's laws now that are so stupied that they shouldn't even be a law and now attack xm that i pay for not you and tell them that they can't have weather channel and other channels that i listen to everyday. i drive for a living everyday and its always nice to know ahead of time whats going on the roads in front of me and the weather channel that covers the weather 24/7 instead of the stupied radio stations that all you hear is talk and its not about weather unless theres a toronado or something. why don't you people pull your heads out of your @ss and do something that's actually do something thats worth my tax dollars that i give you!
